

Some people don't understand

By Zachary FURNISS

Some people just don't understand how important things can be
Some people will do anything for profits and money
Some people will do anything to protect it
Some people will just sit and watch
Some people just don't understand
Some people will tear things down in hope that no one notices
Some people will create petitions and protests
Some people will sit and watch
Some people , not all people but some people just don't understand

This poem was to do with the article about the Amazon rainforest plots that were sold for around 35 thousand dollars. People need to raise awareness about the huge deforestation that is happening currently in the rainforest. Many species are losing their homes.
